I WENT MOURNING WITHOUT THE SUN; I STOOD UP AND CRIED IN THE CONGRESSIONAL.—JOB, 30-28.

But five more months of the Carbon county "court house ring."

Our friends around the corner don't seem to like "Friday, Fish Day." Amen!

To paraphrase an old timer, "Twenty per week is darn poor pay" to do the other fellow's dirty work.

It might be well for "some folks" to get out through Carbon county and see what Utah Power and Light company is doing locally.

Says the Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Record: "Meat is again going up and we have the announcement that the increase will amount to 50 per cent. Shoes are to cost a dollar or two more a pair. Let's all rejoice in democratic prosperity."

Phunny that our "court house ring" should discover at this late date that there are taxpayers in Carbon county capable of doing work on the local roads as well as a Colorado crowd. These Carbon county fellows own just as good horses and their muscles are as strong as the Centennial State fellows. Keep money at home by "working but one team at a time."

The adherence of ex-Senator Beveridge to the Hughes cause is an occasion of much alarm to democrats in Indiana, who had counted on Beveridge to furnish the heavy artillery for a "bull moose" campaign in Hoosierdom. With Beveridge on the stump for the republican ticket, as he says he will be, it means that his personal following which two campaigns have shown to be surprisingly large, will be in the republican column and that Indiana will be safely republican also.

Some near accidents lately by reckless automobile drivers has caused the mayor and city council to instruct the marshal to rigidly enforce the speed limit ordinance, particularly at the intersections of Eighth and Main and Ninth and Main streets. To this end the street supervisor has been ordered to put up sign boards at each corner warning all automobile drivers or motorcycle riders to slow down to a speed not to exceed ten miles an hour over crossings, and not to exceed eighteen miles an hour upon any of the public streets, and to keep the right of the road at all times. The public generally will applaud this action of the council. There has been an utter disregard of these rules on the part of many drivers and much complaint has been heard of late. Any machine can get around over the city fast enough under the speed ordinance, but in the past these limits have been doubled and trebled, and pedestrians feel that they have a righteous kick coming. Let the ordinance be enforced.

THE SIFTING PROCESS.

As the melting pot of the nations America has come to see that there is danger in getting too much material that is not easily assimilated into our national life. This has been forcibly brought to mind by the many cases of alien sympathy carried to the disloyalty point under stress of the great emotions stirred up by the European war. This unnaturalized element has been but a very small fraction of our adopted citizenship, yet it has been a lively and pernicious fraction. We have been moved to wonder how we shall defend ourselves in the future against the chance of accumulating more of this kind. As shown by John Hays Hammond in a masterly and convincing argument, an educational test is bound to miss the mark, and a character test, if practicable, would be much more to the point. The reason for this is that lack of education can soon be remedied, but deficiency in character cannot be corrected by any system so far divulged. The Zulus have a saying that "wherever a man moves he takes his character with him." New surroundings, new aspirations and a new freedom for development can work wonders in the veriest clodhopper from the old country—it is only a question of time—and these are apt to produce our most faithful citizens, for they are not afflicted with a bunch of irrationalisms to exploit in a country where the soil is not congenial to nihilistic growth. But deliver us from the educated foreigner with a politico-social bee in his bonnet. He is a curse wherever he goes and there is no potentiality in American education or American institutions to take the kinks out of his brain. This is the kind of immigrant, above all others, who should be shut out, for this is the very kind that has given us assassins of public men, dynamiters of public works, agitators among contented peoples, and plotters for foreign governments on American soil. Hammond recommends that we establish immigration inspectors at the source of immigration, not at its mouth, and thereby deserving men could come to this country armed with recommendations of our agents, and the doors would be closed on the anarchist, the disturber, the criminal and the men whose whole makeup is antagonistic to American ideas.

The news columns of today's Sun contain information to the effect that the city council has served notice upon certain property owners just outside the city limits who, up to this time, have enjoyed the use of the city light and water, and in one or two instances sewer connection privileges, that they must forthwith bring their property within the city or be cut off from the use of these municipal conveniences. This is quite proper. Nearly two years ago a number of residents in that certain tract of platted ground petitioned the city council to be taken into the city, and the petition was acted upon favorably and the addition annexed. The law provides that after such acceptance the petitioners are required to file and record the plat with the county recorder. This provision was not complied with and the result is that the property is not liable to city taxation. To correct this the city council has taken action as noted. In various outlying districts there are still some actual taxpayers who are not enjoying the use of either light or water, because the city finances will not justify the expense of extending to these isolated places, but it is manifestly unfair to deny these people something which others, who contribute nothing towards maintaining the city government have been enjoying for several years. When all property pays its just proportion of city taxes the isolated resident will come into his lawful rights. And let us hope this may be speedily accomplished.

NOT DISCUSSING IT.
Max—Do you mean to tell me that the moon is made of green cheese?
Dax—Certainly not. Such a question would be a case for the pure food laws.

Charles Evans Hughes, republican candidate for president, will speak in Salt Lake City on the night of August 21st. The republican state committee is making plans already for his reception.

R. W. Maternity, candidate on the republican ticket for nomination for congressman from the First district, left Monday for a trip through the towns of Utah county in the interest of his campaign.

Friends in Salt Lake City of Thomas Maroneaux are urging him to become a candidate for United States senator on the democratic ticket. He has declined, however, and insists on giving his support to Judge William H. King.

Elias A. Gee of Provo is a candidate from Utah county for the nomination for state auditor at the republican convention, August 8th. Gee is a native of Provo. He has had experience in the office of the county clerk of Utah county.

Harry S. Joseph has received a letter from Capt. A. J. Crosby of New York, chairman of the Hughes alliance, asking him to take up actively the work of the organization in Salt Lake City. Joseph has begun the work of the alliance.

Emch Jorgensen of the Jordan high school at Sandy, who has toured practically every section of the state in the interest of prohibition, states that from St. George to Tremonton a great sentiment has crystallized for prohibition by the legislative enactment.

Attorney Lewis Larson of Mantoloking, who ran for congress on the progressive ticket two years ago, has accepted the temporary chairmanship of the republican congressional convention in the First district, to be held at Ogden August 9th. T. H. Burton, chairman of the congressional committee of the district, announced the appointment Wednesday.

Carl H. Marvonen of Price was in Salt Lake City yesterday calling upon republican friends and enlisting their support of his candidacy for the state treasurer's nomination. Marvonen said he was much pleased at the favorable reception his candidacy has received since he announced himself a couple of weeks ago. He plans to visit the northern part of the state before returning home—Salt Lake Tribune, 30th.

While numerous names are mentioned by friends of different democratic, no one of them has yet come out with an announcement of his candidacy for the nomination for governor. Judge Joshua Greenwald of Nephi, Major H. W. Young, Junius H. Moyle, J. Will Knight of Provo, A. W. McCune, Stephen L. Richards, Will G. Farrell, Mathewson Thomas, A.

W. Irvin, Harden Denison and others are among the "mentioned" candidates.

The democrats have issued a call for a county convention at Price on the 17th to elect delegates to the state convention which meets at Ogden on the 14th of August. The call may be seen in another part of this impression. The congressional convention will meet immediately after the close of the state convention and the Seventh Judicial district delegates will also meet at Ogden on the 14th to nominate a judge and district attorney.

Utah delegates to the progressive national convention held in Chicago on June 7th met Monday night at the office of W. D. Livingston in Salt Lake City and decided not to send a delegate to the national meeting called at Indianapolis August 2d, but wired John M. Parker, who called the meeting, that they would probably be bound by the action of the meeting. The message also asked for a definite explanation of the purposes of the meeting.

Friends of A. W. McCune announce definitely that he is a receptive candidate for the nomination for governor on the democratic ticket. Although McCune is making no efforts for the nomination, and thus far has not indicated for publication that he is willing to run, his friends declare that he is kept closely advised of the political situation, and that he has made it known to his advisors that he will run for the office if his party wishes him to do so—Deseret News, 1st.

Shortcomings are most apparent, and yet you wouldn't know a dog had fleas if he didn't make some fuss about it. The man who has good things to offer and doesn't advertise should think of this.
